3 Mouthwatering Treats to Try from the Food & Wine Classic in Aspen

BY: JOANNA BOBER

Here's a scene-setter: A giant white tent is pitched at the base of Aspen Mountain where food and wine purveyors from across the country display their latest and greatest products as part of the Food & Wine Classic.

We were lucky enough to walk, sip and nibble our way through the heady mix of options. Three of our favorite offerings included mini bottled sodas from Indi & Co (left), a fizzy beverage maker from Seville, Spain that uses aromatic herbs, lemons and oranges along with other fragrant botanicals to create super delicious mixers (which can also be enjoyed alone over ice).

Delysia Chocolatier, the Austin, Texas boutique chocolatier, featured a sweets collection (above) dedicated to delicacies and flavors typical of the South—from ridiculously yummy salted bourbon pecan truffles (made with liquor from Garrison Brothers, a famed Texas Hill Country distillery) to peach cobbler-flavored white chocolate bonbons.

Patron tequila handed out artisanal, boozy popsicles (above) made for them by Atlanta's King of Pops, with haute flavors ranging from an Orange Mule (orange, lime and ginger) to Tequila Rose (rosewater margarita). They kindly offered us the recipes to two other gourmet varieties—Pineapple Cilantro and Peach Basil—ideal for your summer weekend festivities, and a virtual taste of this oh-so-delectable Aspen weekend.
